WHAT can I say about our game at Orient on Tuesday night?

After three good games against York, Hull and Wigan which set a good trend, we went down to London determined to break that old jinx. We set about the job in magnificent style, I thought, recovering well from going a goal down.

Simon Rudge did a superb bit of work to set up Jeff Chandler for the first goal and did particularly well himself to score the second.

Our policy of shooting whenever possible paid off when Jeff Chandler made it 3-1 and we really could have gone in at half time 4-1 up if Warren Joyce had headed home a great chance just before the interval.

Having looked so good, the second half turned out to be a nightmare. After a magnificent first half display we blew it!

Everything went wrong — even down to us having a goal disallowed when their goalkeeper failed to hold a header from Wayne Foster. Everyone thought the ball had gone well over the line but the referee said he was unsighted and the linesman said it hadn't crossed.

But that was no excuse for the way we performed in the second half. We had a great chance to take the pressure off and we wasted it.

That is why it is so important to get back into winning ways this afternoon against Newport. We must prove to ourselves and to everyone else that the Orient defeat was just a hiccup.

A warm welcome goes out to the Newport team, their directors and supporters and especially to their managerial team, our good friends Colin Addison and Bobby Smith.

Newport have been going great guns recently with a run that has lifted them well up the table.

So the game, like them all these days, will be a difficult one. I hope it is one we all enjoy.

NEWPORT

IMPROVED AWAY FORM BOOSTS NEWPORT

by Tony Pullein

Though Newport are still in some danger of relegation, their chances of keeping clear have been given a boost by a marked improvement in their away form since the turn of the year. They failed to win any away match this season until running up a remarkable 5-2 success at Brentford in January.

Since then they have won at Cambridge (2-1) Swansea (3-0), Reading (1-0) and drawn at Orient (1-1).

Indeed, Newport were beaten only once in seven away games from the beginning of January until now — and that was at Millwall (0-2). Their other away points were collected from draws at Gillingham (1-1), Wigan (1-1), Walsall (1-1), Lincoln (2-2), Derby (3-3) and Preston (1-1).

Newport were also beaten at York (0-2), Bradford City (0-1), Burnley (0-2), Rotherham (0-1), Hull (0-2) and Bristol Rovers (0-2).

Their Cup hopes were killed in the first round of both major competitions. They lost 1-5 on aggregate to Bristol City in the Milk Cup and, after being held to a 1-1 draw at home by Aldershot in the FA Cup, they lost the replay 0-4.

But Newport did go through the first round of the Freight Rover Trophy, scoring a good 4-1 aggregate victory over Exeter City. They then waited patiently for the outcome of the Bristol Rovers-Swansea tie for they were drawn at home to the winners in round two.

It's beginning to look as if Newport will finish as the most successful of the four Football League clubs in Wales — assuming they avoid relegation. Cardiff seem to be heading down for Division Three. Swansea for Division Four and Wrexham may well have to apply for re-election.

Two seasons ago Newport were poised to win promotion to the Second Division until a late collapse killed those dreams. Newport have spent one solitary season in their history as a Second Division club. They won the Third Division (South) championship in 1939 but, because of the war, had to wait seven years before they could take their place in Division Two.

By then their promotion team had dispersed or grown old and they struggled all the way, losing one game by the Football League's record score of 0-13 at Newcastle. The Magpies also missed a penalty before they opened the scoring!

In 1962 they dropped into the Fourth Division and the following years were quite disastrous. At one stage attendances dropped to below the 2,000 mark and the club seemed sure to fold. Neither the Welsh F.A. nor the local council would come to their aid with any form of loan and it is something of a miracle how the directors managed to keep things going.

The corner was eventually turned in 1980 when, in addition to winning promotion, Newport won the Welsh Cup for the first time. They battled their way to the quarter-finals of the European Cup-Winners' Cup the following season.

Newport County F.C. was formed in 1912, taking their place immediately in the Second Division of the Southern League. It was fortuitous that they should gain election to the increased First Division after the first world war for, at the end of the first post-war season, the entire section was taken over by the Football League to form the Third Division (South) in 1920.

They failed to gain re-election in 1931 but, after only one season in non-League football, they were voted back again.

MARK KENDALL (Goalkeeper). Mark played for Wales' schoolboys and was spotted at an early age by Tottenham. He made his League debut for Spurs in 1978 and held his place for more than half the season. He dropped out the next season, when he joined Chesterfield on loan. Newport paid a then club record fee of £45,000 to sign him in 1980. Mark is a Wales under-21 international.

LINDEN JONES (Defender). Linden served his apprenticeship with Cardiff City, making his first League appearance in 1978/79. Three seasons later he was introduced to the Wales under-21 side, winning three caps. He joined Newport in a player-exchange deal during the early weeks of last season.

TERRY BOYLE (Defender). Terry started started his professional career with Tottenham, but didn't get into their League eleven. He moved on to Crystal Palace in 1977 and, though he was not always a member of their first-team, he won two full caps for Wales. Terry has also represented his country at under-21, youth and schoolboy levels. Following a loan spell with Wimbledon, he was transferred to Bristol City in 1981 and he moved on to Newport a year later.

TREVOR MATTHEWSON (Defender). Trevor was an apprentice with Sheffield Wednesday but only occasional outings in their League eleven. Newport signed him soon after the start of last season and he quickly settled down in the left-back position. For the past few weeks he has been playing in the middle of the defence.

JOHN RELISH (Defender). John started his career with Chester and made his first appearances in their League team in 1972/73. The following season he joined Bury on loan and in 1974 he was transferred to Newport. He now looks back on well over 300 League appearances for the club.

TONY PULIS (Midfield). Tony can play in defence or midfield and he opened his League career with Bristol

Rovers in 1975/76. In 1981 he travelled to the other side of the world to sign for Happy Valley of Hong Kong, but he returned to England in 1982 to resume his career with Bristol Rovers. Newport signed him last summer.

TONY REID (Midfield). Tony was an apprentice with Derby County and he made his first League appearances for the Rams in 1980/81. Two seasons later he joined Scunthorpe for a brief loan spell and, before the campaign was over, he was transferred to Newport.

DAVID GILES (Midfield). David joined Newport from Birmingham during the early weeks of this season. David played for Cardiff in his early days and was transferred to Wrexham for £30,000 in 1978. But it was after moving to Swansea a year later, in a £70,000 deal, that he hit his best form and he was a Swansea player when he won eight of his 12 Wales caps. He went to Crystal Palace in 1981, in a player-exchange deal, and remained at Selhurst until the end of last season. He signed for Birmingham in the summer but the new season was not many weeks old when he achieved the rare distinction of playing League football for all four Football League clubs in Wales. David also played for Wales schoolboys and for the under-21s.

RAY CARTER (Midfield). Hereford United introduced Ray to League soccer in 1975 and he enjoyed just over two years as a first-teamer before moving on to Swindon. After playing more than 200 games for the Robins, he joined Torquay in 1982 and it was in the early stages of last season that he made his way to Somerton Park.

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN (Forward). Neville started his career with Port Vale, quickly earning a reputation as a consistent goalscorer. He was transferred to Stoke City for £35,000 in 1982, re-joining his brother Mark who had also been with Vale. Last season he lost his place and moved out on loan to Newport and Plymouth before making a full transfer to Newport. He is now into double figures in goals, his tally including a hat-trick in the 3-3 draw at Derby in December.

STEVE COOPER (Forward). Steve played an important part in transforming Newport's poor away form. He scored four times in their first away victory at Brentford. Steve was once a reserve player with Brighton and then went into non-League football with Dover and Stourbridge before Torquay gave him a chance to make his name in League football in 1977. He was on two occasions their leading scorer before being released at the end of last season. Newport signed him soon after the start of this season.

TONY KELLOW (Forward). Tony is a high-scoring forward who joined Newport as a non-contract player in November. He made his name as a prolific scorer in the Western League and he carried on his exploits after joining Exeter City in 1976. Blackpool invested a club record £125,000 fee to sign him in 1978 and he did a good job for them two years before returning to Exeter for £70,000. In 1980/81 he was the Grecians' top scorer with 33 goals and he topped the list again the following season with 22. When he lost his place last season he moved on to Plymouth but he did not meet with a great deal of success at Home Park.

KEVIN KENT (Forward). Kevin served his apprenticeship with West Bromich Albion and made a couple of appearances in their First Division side last season. He joined Newport last summer.

JOHN LEWIS (Forward). John developed with Cardiff City, making the first of his 150-plus first-team appearances in 1978/79. He won Wales' under-21 honours and moved on to Newport soon after the start of last season.

In Retrospect

Today's game with Newport County will be the fourth football league meeting between the two sides. The Welshmen have the slight edge to date, having won twice to Boltons once, and all games ending in a 3-2 scoreline.

Newport's only previous visit to Burnden was in October 1983 when they came from behind to win with two goals in the final two minutes and inflict Bolton's first home defeat of the season. County took the lead after 25 minutes when a Linden Jones free kick squirmed through Simon Farnworth's hands into the net. A minute before half time Tony Caldwell equalised when after receiving a Jeff Chandler pass he raced 40 yards before shooting past Mark Kendall from close in.

The second half appeared to be going Bolton's way when County had a goal disallowed in the 65th minute and, two minutes later, Jeff Chandler headed home a Steve Thompson corner with County claiming that the ball had not crossed the line. Simon Rudge then rattled the crossbar with a header and Neil Redfearn hit the bar with a long range shot. Two minutes were remaining when a shot from Tony Reid, took a deflection and found its way into the net, then, in injury time, the 4928 crowd were stunned when Roy Carter fired home the winner.

The two sides were:

Bolton: Farnworth, Borrows, Deakin, Joyce, McElhinney, Valentine, Thompson, Chandler, Rudge, Caldwell, Redfearn, Sub Berry.

Newport County: Kendall, Jones, Relish, Reid, Boyle, Oakes, Martinez, Aldridge, Micallef, Carter, Lewis, Sub Stroud.

The return game at Somerton Park was a game of two halves that saw Bolton gain revenge and keep up their hopes of promotion. Neil Whatmore put Bolton in front in the 18th minute with his first goal since returning for his third spell with the club. It was Whatmore who set up the Wanderers second goal after 31 minutes when he kept the ball in play and crossed for Steve Thompson to score with a spectacular diving header. Six minutes later Warren Joyce gave Bolton a commanding lead when he chipped Mark Kendall to top one of the club's best performances of the season.

The second half told a different story, as Newport reshuffled their side, Keith Oakes going into attack, Tarki Micallef grabbed his first goal for the club in the 53rd minute with a low shot and it was then that Newport took command. Peter Valentine headed a Vaughan Jones effort off the line and both Keith Oakes and Chris Lillygreen went close. In the final minute Lillygreen headed home a Micallef cross but the Wanderers hung on to win the points.

Earlier this season, at Somerton Park, it was the Welshmen who took a 3-0 lead before the Wanderers hit back to almost snatch a point. Neville Chamberlain headed home County's first goal in the 31st minute after a cross from John Lewis had been headed on by David Giles. On the stroke of half time Terry Boyle put County two up with a free header from a Tony Reid free kick. The game looked lost when two minutes after the restart Newport scored their third goal with yet another header, this time from Steve Cooper.

Wayne Foster reduced the arrears in the 63rd minute, when from a Ray Deakin cross he beat two defenders before rifling home from 15 yards. The Wanderers continued to claw their way back with Simon Rudge hitting the post, and Mark Kendall pulling off a tremendous save from Ray Deakin. It wasn't until two minutes from time that Steve Thompson scored Bolton's second goal when he curled a free kick round Newport's wall but it was too late to save the game.

Our record against Newport is as follows:—

Down Memory Lane

15 years ago 3rd April 1970. The Wanderers were now clear of the relegation threat, second division football being assured thanks to an unbeaten run of four games. Carlisle United visited Burnden on Grand National day with Chris Duffey coming into the side for his first taste of league football. The game was a dull end of the season affair and it ended scoreless.

The reserves meanwhile did their chances of avoiding re-election to the Central League a power of good, with a 1-0 win at Wolves, former Molineux player Terry Wharton grabbing the winner.

9th April 1970. The curtain on the football league season came down for Bolton with a visit from Norwich City. 16 years old Don McAllister, another Burnden babe, made his league debut in place of Warwick Rimmer who reverted to substitute. Unfortunately it was another poor game and ended goalless, with the only highlight coming when Wanderers keeper, Alan Boswell, came out of his goal and went on a right wing run much to the crowds amusement.

The Wanderers final record for 1969/70 read, P 42, W 12, D 12, L 18, For 54, Against 61 ending in 16th position. John Byrom made most appearances, 40, and was also leading goalscorer with 20.

10 years ago 8th April 1975. Bolton visited West Brom and came away with both points in a 1-0 win to end a run of eight games without a victory. Peter Thompson scored the only goal, his first for the club, and Mike Walsh made his full league debut.

12th April 1975. Bolton were denied victory at Orient thanks to some fine goalkeeping by veteran John Jackson and they had to settle for a point in a goalless draw.

Peter Thompson was again man of the match for the Wanderers laying on chances for both Neil Whatmore and Stuart Lee, that went begging. In one incident he produced a devastating dummy leaving Ricky Heppollette and Derrick Downing crashing into each other.

5 years ago 7th April 1980. Manchester United visited Burnden and went away with the points in a 3-1 win. A crowd of 31902 saw the sides level at half time with Gordon McQueen on the mark for second placed United and Neil Whatmore striking for Bolton. Second half goals from Micky Thomas and Steve Coppell were enough to earn victory for the visitors.

Mike Bennett made his full league debut for the Wanderers at full back. 8th April 1980. Bolton took a point from a 2-2 draw with Middlesbrough at Burnden thanks to a last minute goal from Neil Whatmore, his sixth goal in as many games. Tad Nowak gave Bolton the lead with his first league goal but the North Easterns came back when David Hodgson found the net. Bolton seemed down and out when two minutes from time Micky Burns put Boro in front but in the final seconds Whatmore scrambled the ball over the line. The Wanderers had fought back well, as for the whole of the second half they were down to 10 men, Peter Reid having been stretched off with concussion.

12th April 1980. Bolton's fate was finally decided with a 2-1 defeat at Bristol City ensuring relegation to the second division. Tom Ritchie put the home side in front with a controversial penalty after 40 minutes and Jimmy Mann made it two in the 58th minute. Substitute Sam Allardyce gave Bolton hope with a brilliant shot a quarter of an hour from time but it wasn't enough. Bolton blooded another youngster in Dave Hoggan for his first ever taste of league football.

Wanderers Half Marathon

Tomorrow sees the "Trotters Thirteen" a half marathon road race, taking place at 10.00am. The start and finish is on the forecourt of the ground and the 13.1 mile course takes in Trinity Street, St. Georges Road, Chorley New Road, Beaumont Road, Wigan Road, Gilnow Road, and Tudor Avenue.

Entries are being taken on the day at £2.50 for AAA Affiliated Club members and £3.00 for others. The Leaders are expected to take just over an hour to complete the race so if you are not running why not go onto the course and give the runners a cheer. For those coming to Burnden, refreshments will be available.

27th March 1985, Bolton Res 1 Port Vale Res 0

The Wanderers reserves registered their second home victory of the week against a much more experienced Port Vale outfit that included Alan Oakes. Paul Hughes, playing his first full central league game for the Wanderers was always in the thick of the action, and after missing a good chance in the first half made amends by grabbing the winner in the 54th minute.

Roger Walker got away down the right wing and outpaced the Vale defence and unselfishly pulled the ball back for Hughes to tap the ball into an empty net.

Wanderers young keeper Kevin Mailey again gave a competent performance and made a breathtaking save five minutes from time to earn a hard fought victory.

Team: Mailey, Fitzpatrick, Jones, Booth, Howard, Phillips, Walker, Hughes, Saunders, Darby, Whitlow, Sub Griffin for Fitzpatrick.

1st April 1985 Grimsby Town Res 4 Bolton Wanderers Res 2

Bolton's youngest reserve side of the season gave a good showing at Blundell Park, and it was only a three minute lapse of concentration in which three goals were conceded that cost the points.

The first half was goalless but Grimsby found themselves three goals to the good after only eight minutes of the second period. Taylor opened the scoring with a blistering shot and then Wanderers centre half, Paul Howard sliced the ball into his own net when attempting to clear. Matthews grabbed the Mariners third and it was the same player that scored their fourth after 62 minutes.

Bolton reduced the arrears when substitute Alan Shawcross volleyed home in his first central league game and from then on the youngsters gained more confidence and got on top.

The Wanderers second goal came after 74 minutes when a Julian Darby free kick struck the foot of the post and rebounded to Steve Saunders who made no mistake. Bolton finished the game on top but couldn't reduce the arrears further, Steve Saunders, Mike Whitlow, Julian Darby and Paul Howard found their way into the referee's notebook, all harsh decisions, in what was a well fought game.

Team: Mailey, Fitzpatrick, Whitlow, Darby, Howard, Winstanley, Walker, Hughes, Saunders, Jones, Mollineux, Sub Shawcross for Hughes.

JULIAN DARBY

OUTSPOKEN, outstanding. That is Brian Clough in a nutshell. But then of course you can't put people in nutshells when it comes to unravelling what makes them tick, Cloughie is probably the most complex of all football folk.

He presents a tough, uncompromising mask and at times his tongue can be cuttingly cruel. But behind it all is a sensitive man with high ideals and a strong sense of family unity.

He rose to the top of the popularity polls through his forthright, often outrageous, opinions, expressed on TV and through the media. And while he took up the public sword to revile the establishment and tarnish famous reputations he remained secure in the knowledge that he had proved himself as a master team-builder at Derby County.

As a player, Brian Clough had been a competitive centre forward, starting his professional career with his home town side Middlesbrough in 1953 . . . And some player he turned out to be, netting an incredible 251 goals in 274 matches for 'Boro' and Sunderland, who he was transferred to in 1961.

While at Ayresome Park he also gained three England Under-23 caps and two full caps — against Wales and Sweden in 1959 — but in 1965 Brian's career was abruptly ended by a serious knee injury.

It was Hartlepool who opened the door to a career in football management in June 1965, and there started one of the most famous managership partnerships in the game . . . Clough and Taylor.

It was a marriage which was to last for 15 years, except for a short spell when Clough went to Leeds United for 44 days, and during that time they proved themselves the best in the business.

In 1967 the duo took charge of ailing Derby County and while the outside world scoffed at their pretensions they set to work making them come true. The Second Division Championship was won in 1969 and then the ultimate, Derby County were crowned Football League Champions in 1972.

Clough and Taylor were now firmly entrenched with the greats and could be spoken about in the same breath as Herbert Chapman, Stan Cullis and Matt Busby. Clough was seen as the abrasive front man, Peter Taylor as the counsellor who smoothed over the troubled waters.

It worked like a dream until back-room disharmony in the Derby boardroom in 1973 resulted in both men quitting the club.

Amid speculation that linked them with nearly every big name in the country the famous partnership arrived at unfashionable Brighton. It was to be a short-lived appointment.

Brian walked out when offered a five-year contract, reputed to be worth £100,000, by Leeds United. He moved into Elland Road on July 20th 1974 . . . 44 days later he was sacked, the victim of 'player-power'. Clough's management technique was just too far removed from that of Don Revie, his predecessor.

His pride might have been hurt but he was able to laugh all the way to the bank with a £70,000 settlement cheque.

By January 1975 the ebullient Mr Clough was back at work again, established as the boss of Second Division Nottingham Forest. The club had been runners-up in the First Division race of 1966-67 but apart from a couple of Second Division Championship titles, in 1907 and 1922, they had nothing to show for 82 years of League football.

Clough was to change all that and how! He persuaded Peter Taylor to leave Brighton and join him and together they forged a magical carpet ride that was to sweep Nottingham Forest across the playing fields of Europe and establish the club as a major force.

Promotion to the First Division was achieved in 1977 and a year later Nottingham Forest were the champions. The following season they upset all the odds by winning the European Cup, thanks to a Trevor Francis goal in the final, and then confounded all the critics again by retaining the trophy in 1980.

In four years Brian Clough had achieved more than most managers do in a lifetime and the winning ways were still not over. Three successive League Cup Final appearances at Wembley followed, two of which were won in 1978 and 1979.

Clough had inscribed his name indelibly into the record books.

When Peter Taylor decided to retire in May 1982, those eager to cut the Forest boss down to size predicted he would falter, yet he has continued to walk tall while Taylor, who made a comeback with Derby County, failed miserably on his own.

There is no doubt that Mr Clough generates a mystical rapport with his players and is able to get more out of them than most managers would. His methods of leadership are unorthodox it is true but he gets results and that's what counts at the end of the day.

Always brave in his decisions he never flinched when he became the first English boss to break the £1 million transfer barrier. The subject of the deal, Justin Fashanu, did not come off at the City Ground and was quickly discarded.

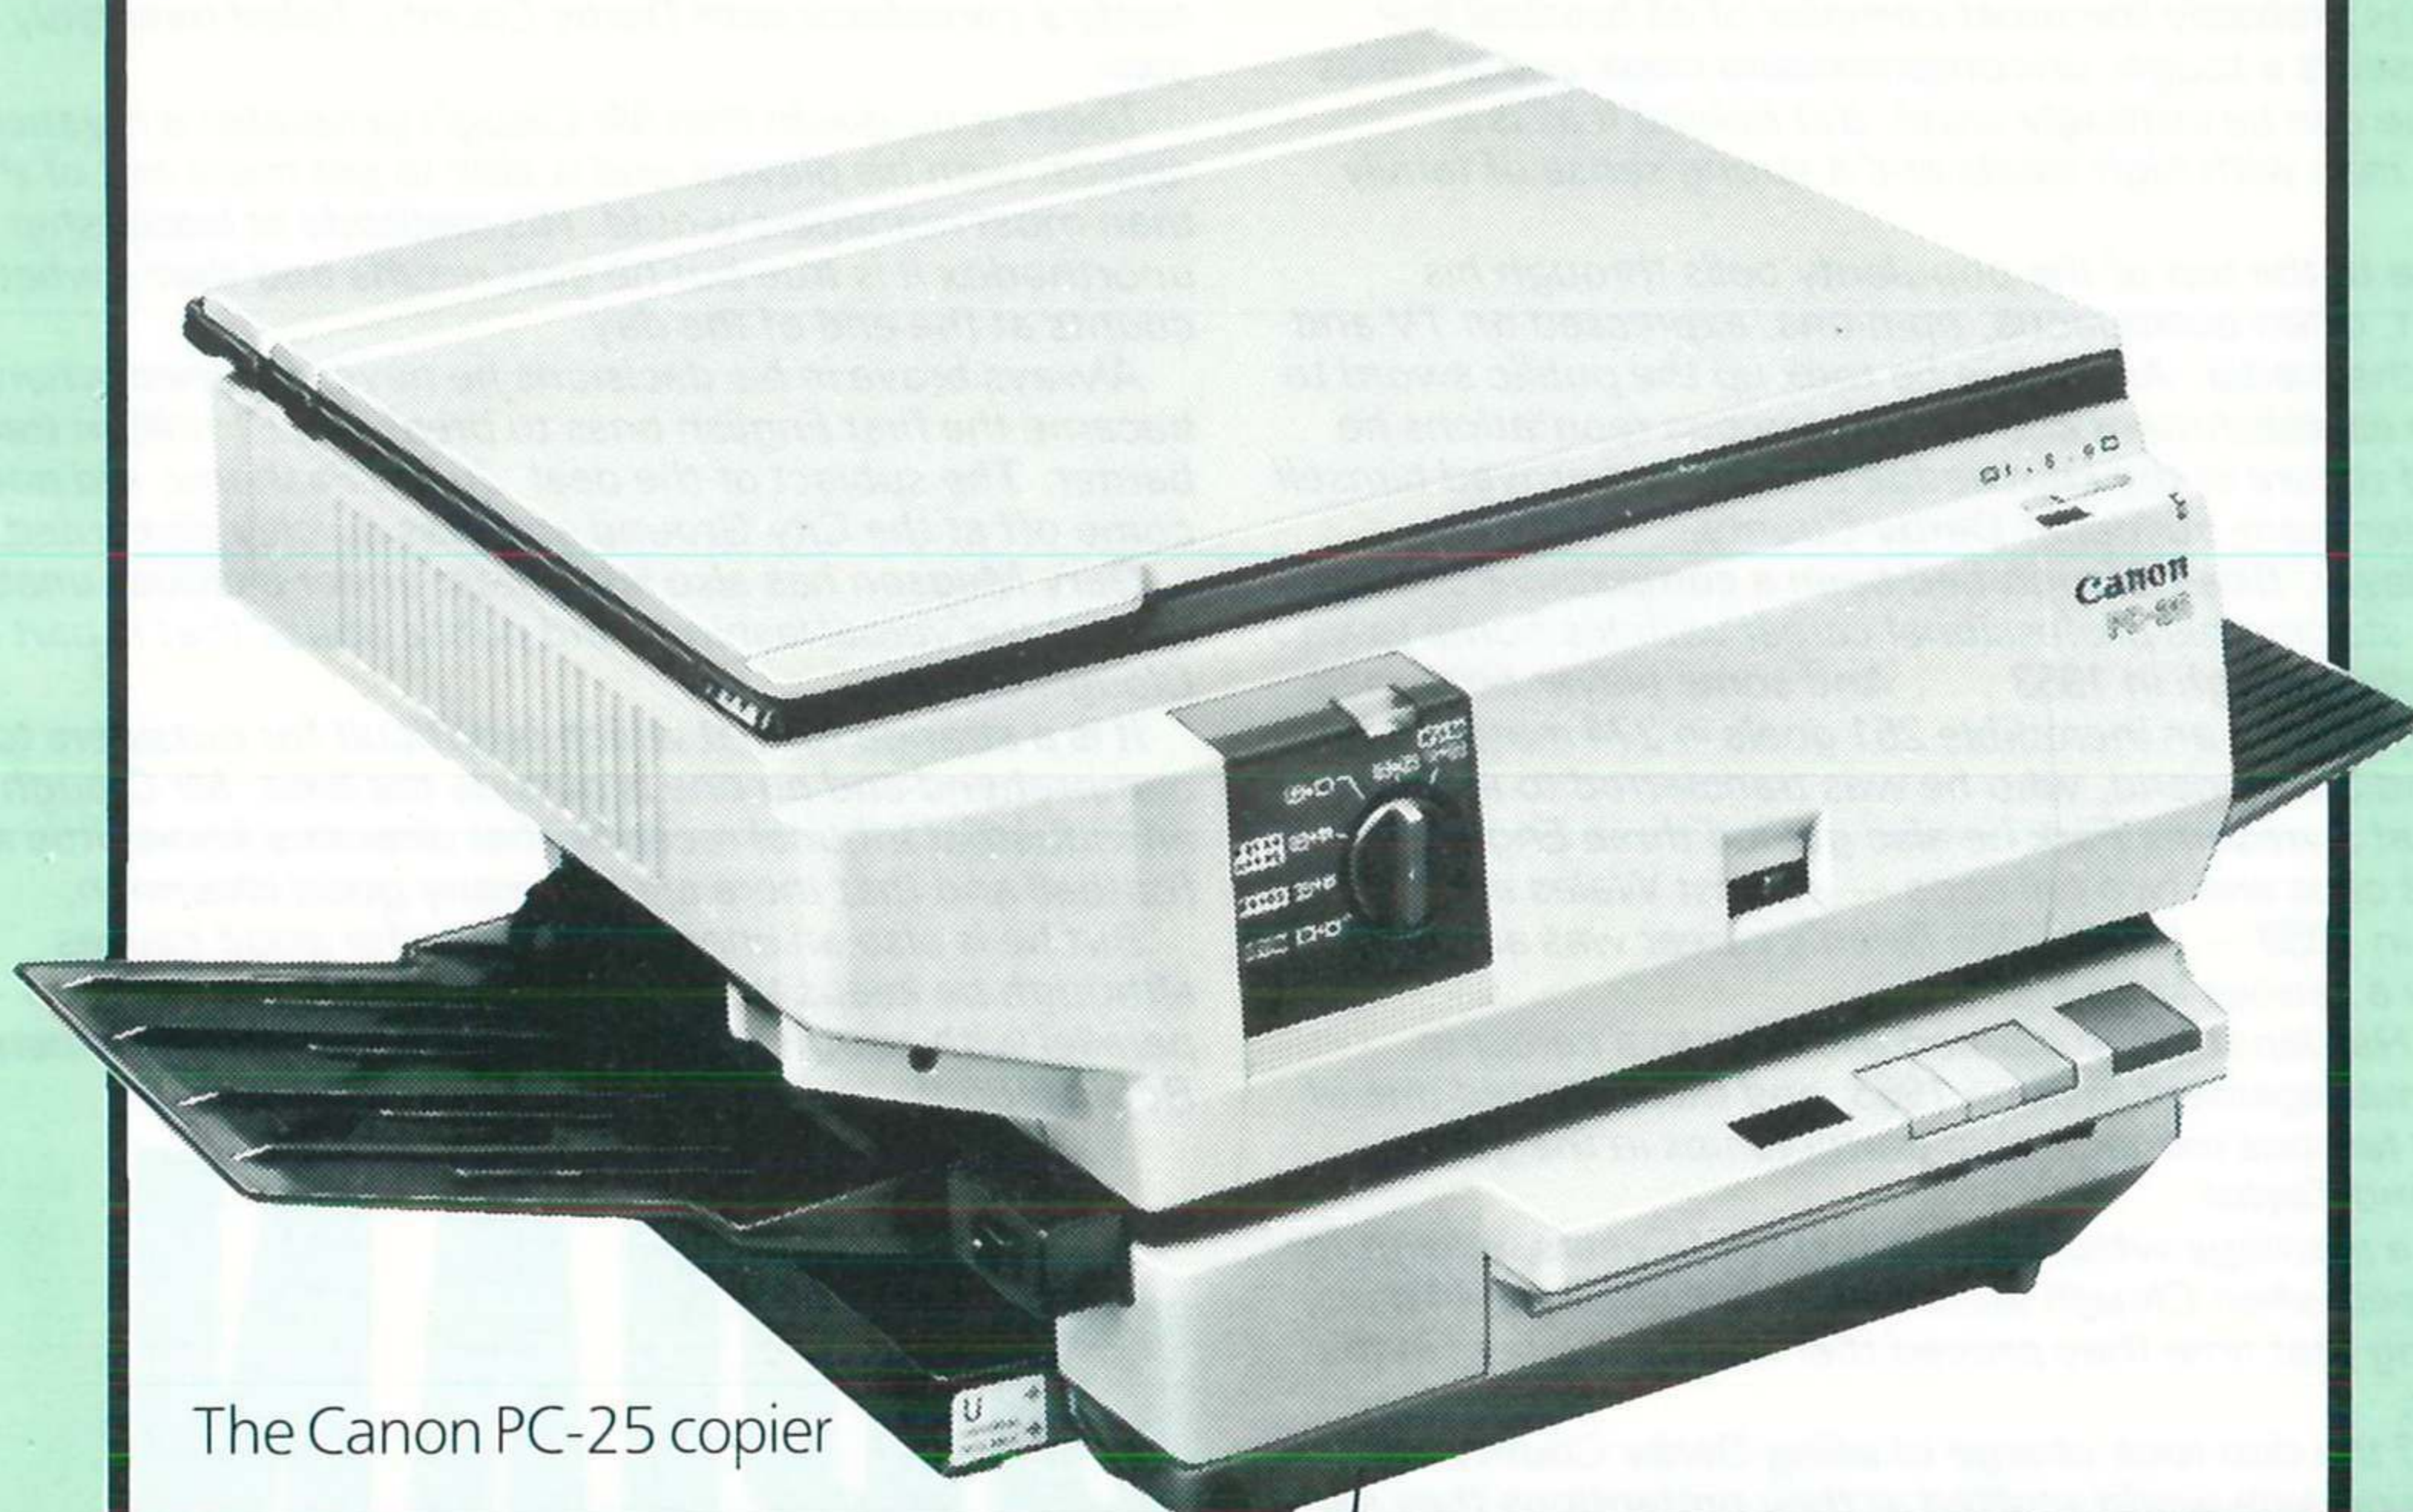

Gary Megson has also left Forest under a cloud, unable to accept the verbal lashings and public abuse that is part of the Clough doctrine.

It is a strange format which is difficult for outsiders to comprehend and no one is outside the limit. Mr Clough told an industrial tribunal recently that directors know little about football and that there are not many good chairmen.

But he is also an energetic worker for good causes although he keeps that quiet. One can perhaps draw a parallel with another famous leader of Nottingham men, Robin Hood!

WHEN one morning newspaper shouted across the breakfast table that Alan Devonshire's footballing career was over, there was no one more surprised than the West Ham United midfielder himself.

"I was totally shocked," he gasped. "The story was unequivocally out of order, a complete fabrication."

The likeable lad from Park Royal felt really angry about the whole affair and who could blame him. Having taken the first tentative steps back into competitive football in a Football Combination match and come through without any problems he was obviously taken back by that particular article.

Ironically, Dev had inspired the Hammers reserve side to a devastating 7-0 win over poor Oxford United, by far their best result of the season and there was no doubt that his presence in the side inspired the players around him.

It was 11 months after the heartbreaking injury he received in a Third Round FA Cup tie against Wigan . . . The fact that he could walk again was a tribute to modern science but to actually play football and stand up to the twisting and turning to say nothing of the knocks was remarkable.

Naturally enough he was apprehensive when he made that comeback but he took a couple of hefty whacks without any visible signs of distress and they gave him confidence.

"I am determined not to rush things," he insists. "Of course I'm thinking about first team football, that is the ultimate goal. But I'm not going to get silly. We will just take one game at a time."

It is a lonely vigil returning from a long and serious injury. Endless knee exercises, repetitive lifting schedules, there seems no end to the blood, sweat and tears.

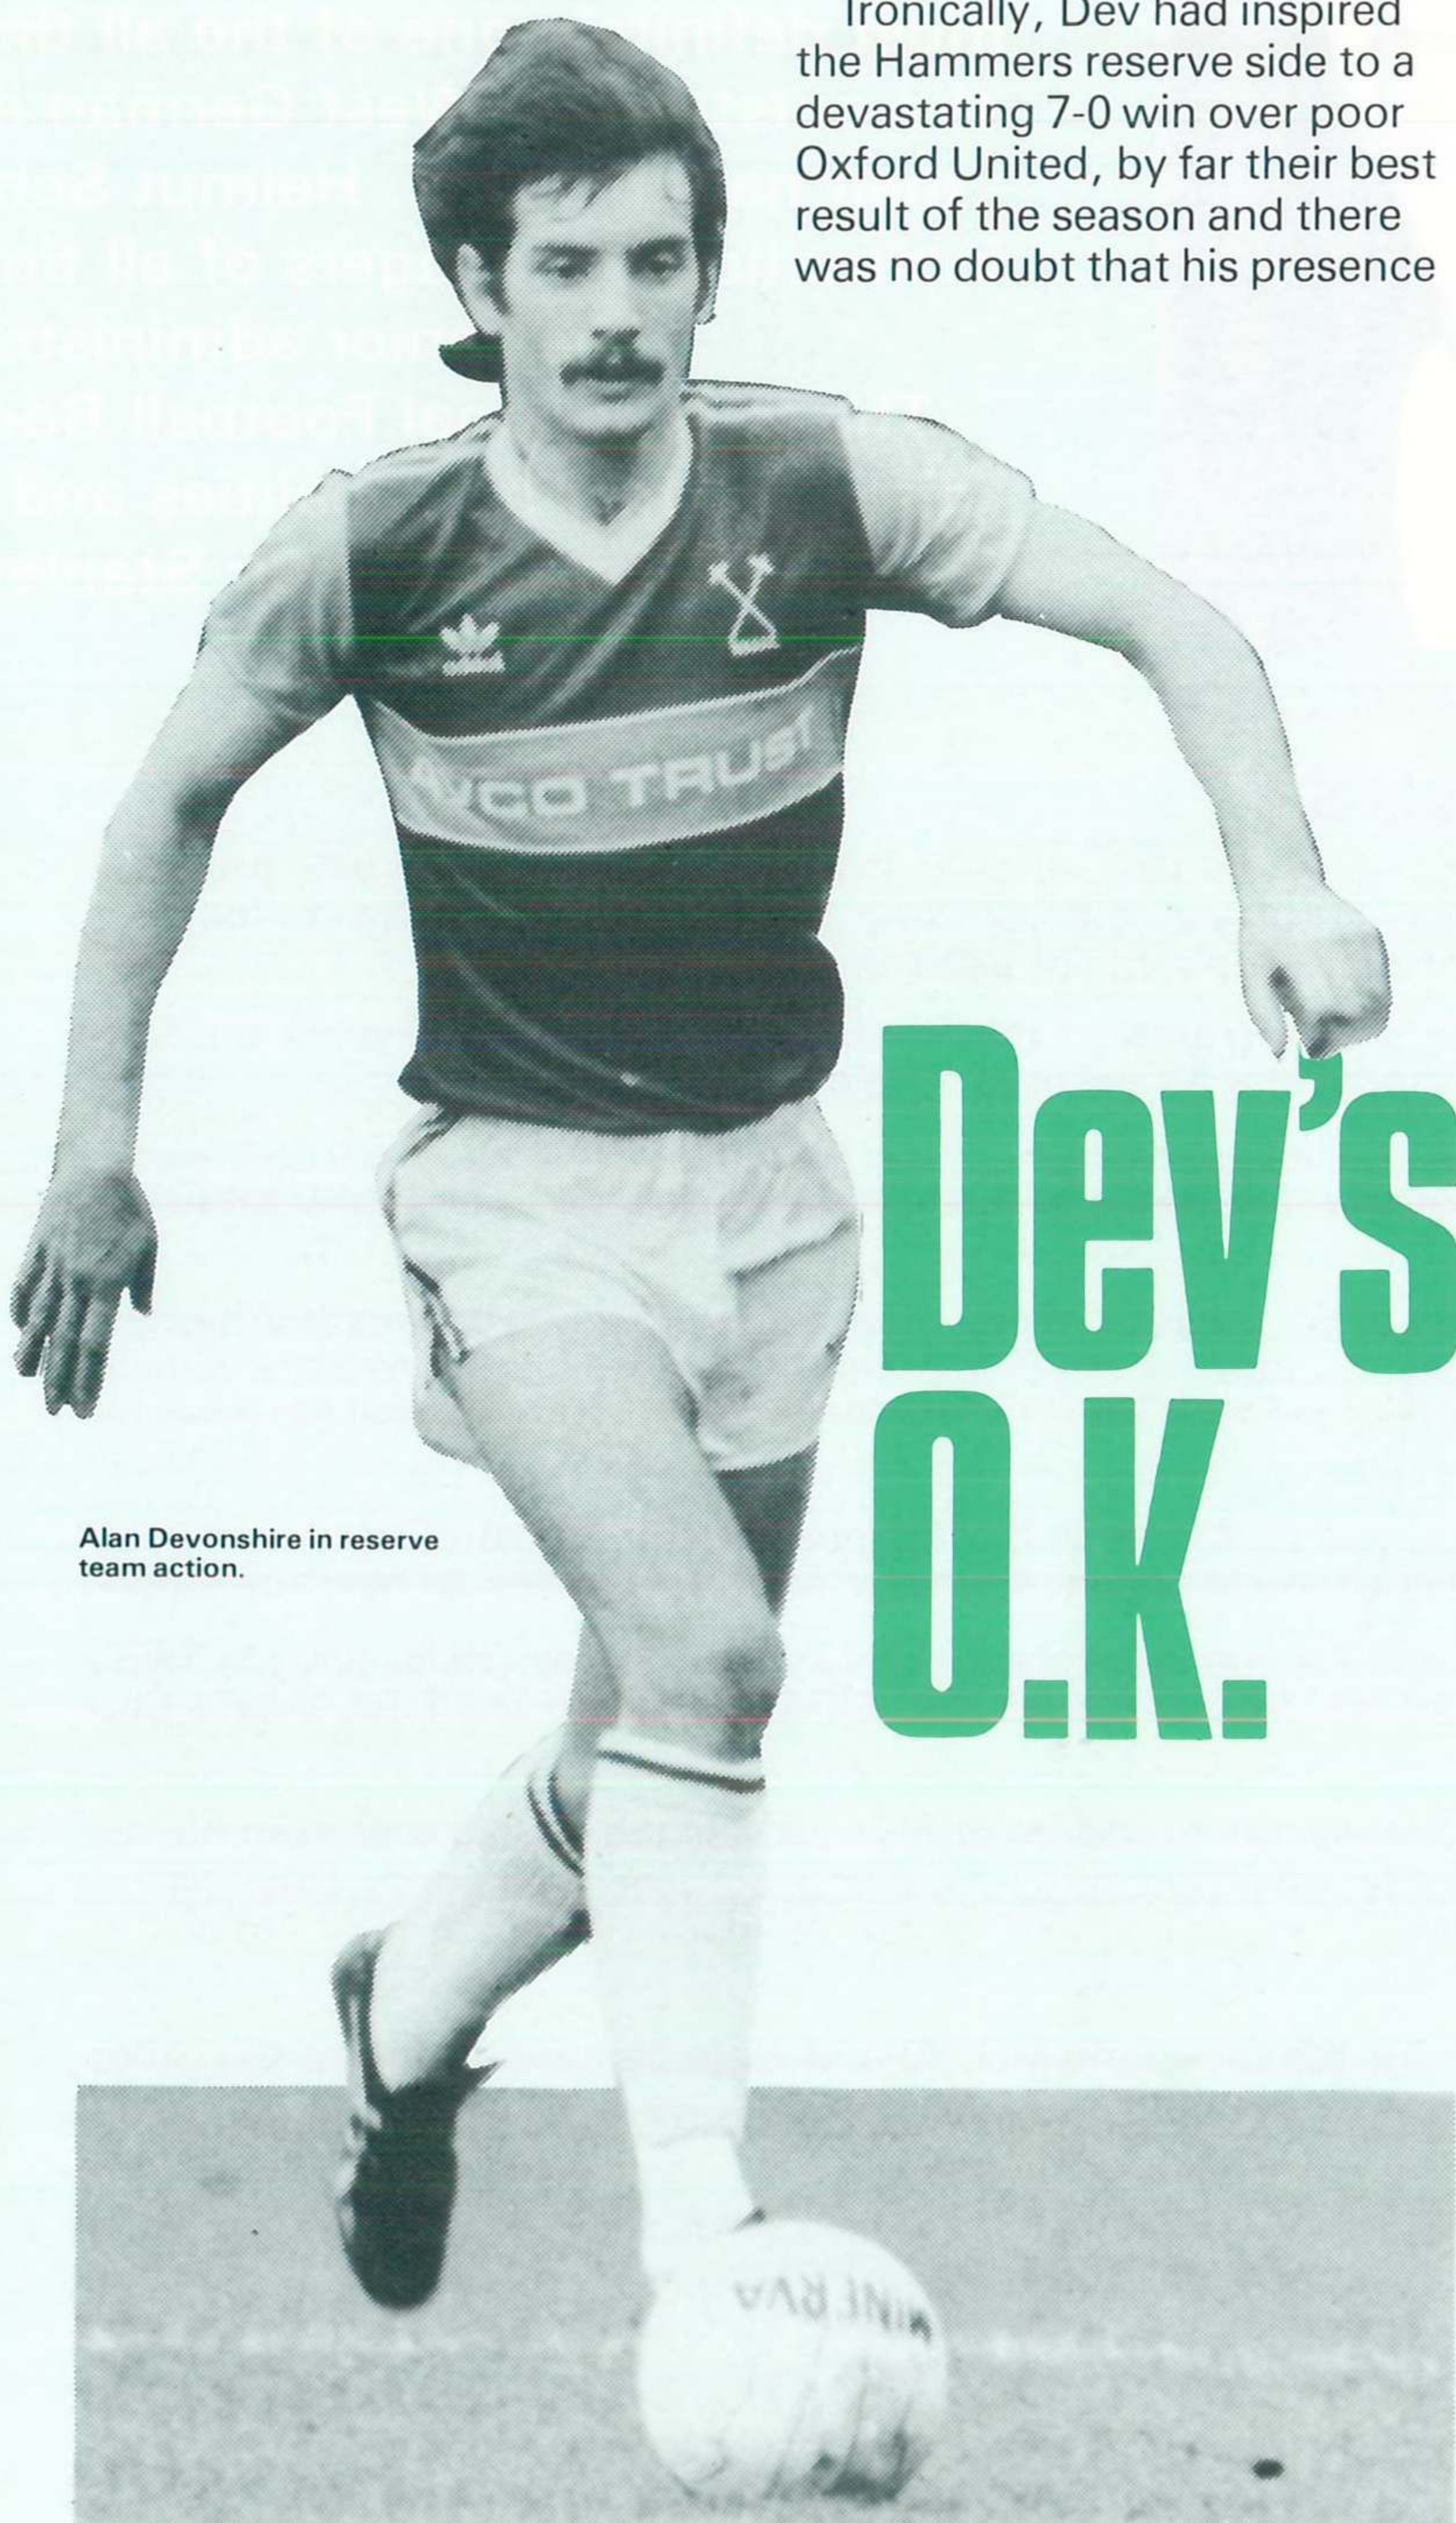

The tedium can be mind bending, the physical strain torturous but at the end of it all when you step back on to that field it seems all worthwhile.

"I'm not one for setting targets because it knocks you back if you don't achieve them," says Dev, "but let's say I would like to be contemplating first team football by the end of February."

A return to First Division action then would provide a real boost for West Ham United and give Alan a chance to work at restoring his international career as well.

England boss Bobby Robson has always let it be known that he was leaving the door open for Dev and Tottenham's Glenn Hoddle, two exceptional midfield men.

The good news now is that both are making giant strides in that direction and Alan Devonshire's defiant challenge: "Don't write me off," is music to everyone's ears.

SIR STANLEY ROUS

Here is a man who was never good enough to play soccer in the Football League, yet who probably had more influence on the game than any player. Stanley Rous, knighted for his services to football, has left a massive impact as one of the world's senior administrators.

He has refereed the FA Cup Final, was secretary of the Football Association for 28 years and held the most important post in world football for 13 years as President of FIFA.

Standing around 6ft 4ins and with a distinguished gait, Rous has a calm exterior which conceals a perceptive brain. He has been negotiator, innovator, placator and ambassador. The Henry Kissinger of football.

Rous was originally a rugby player at St. Luke's College, Exeter, but later played amateur football as a goalkeeper. During his twenties, he took up refereeing and was so successful and made such progress at his new role that he handled the 1934 FA Cup Final between Portsmouth and Manchester City.

One of his proudest achievements was to introduce the diagonal method of patrolling the pitch by referees, providing the best possible all-round vision. It is now used by referees all over the world.

During his 28 years in office at the FA, he re-wrote the laws of the game (1938) and, in 1947, brought the four British FA's out of isolation and back into FIFA. He joined the FIFA World Cup organising committee in 1950.

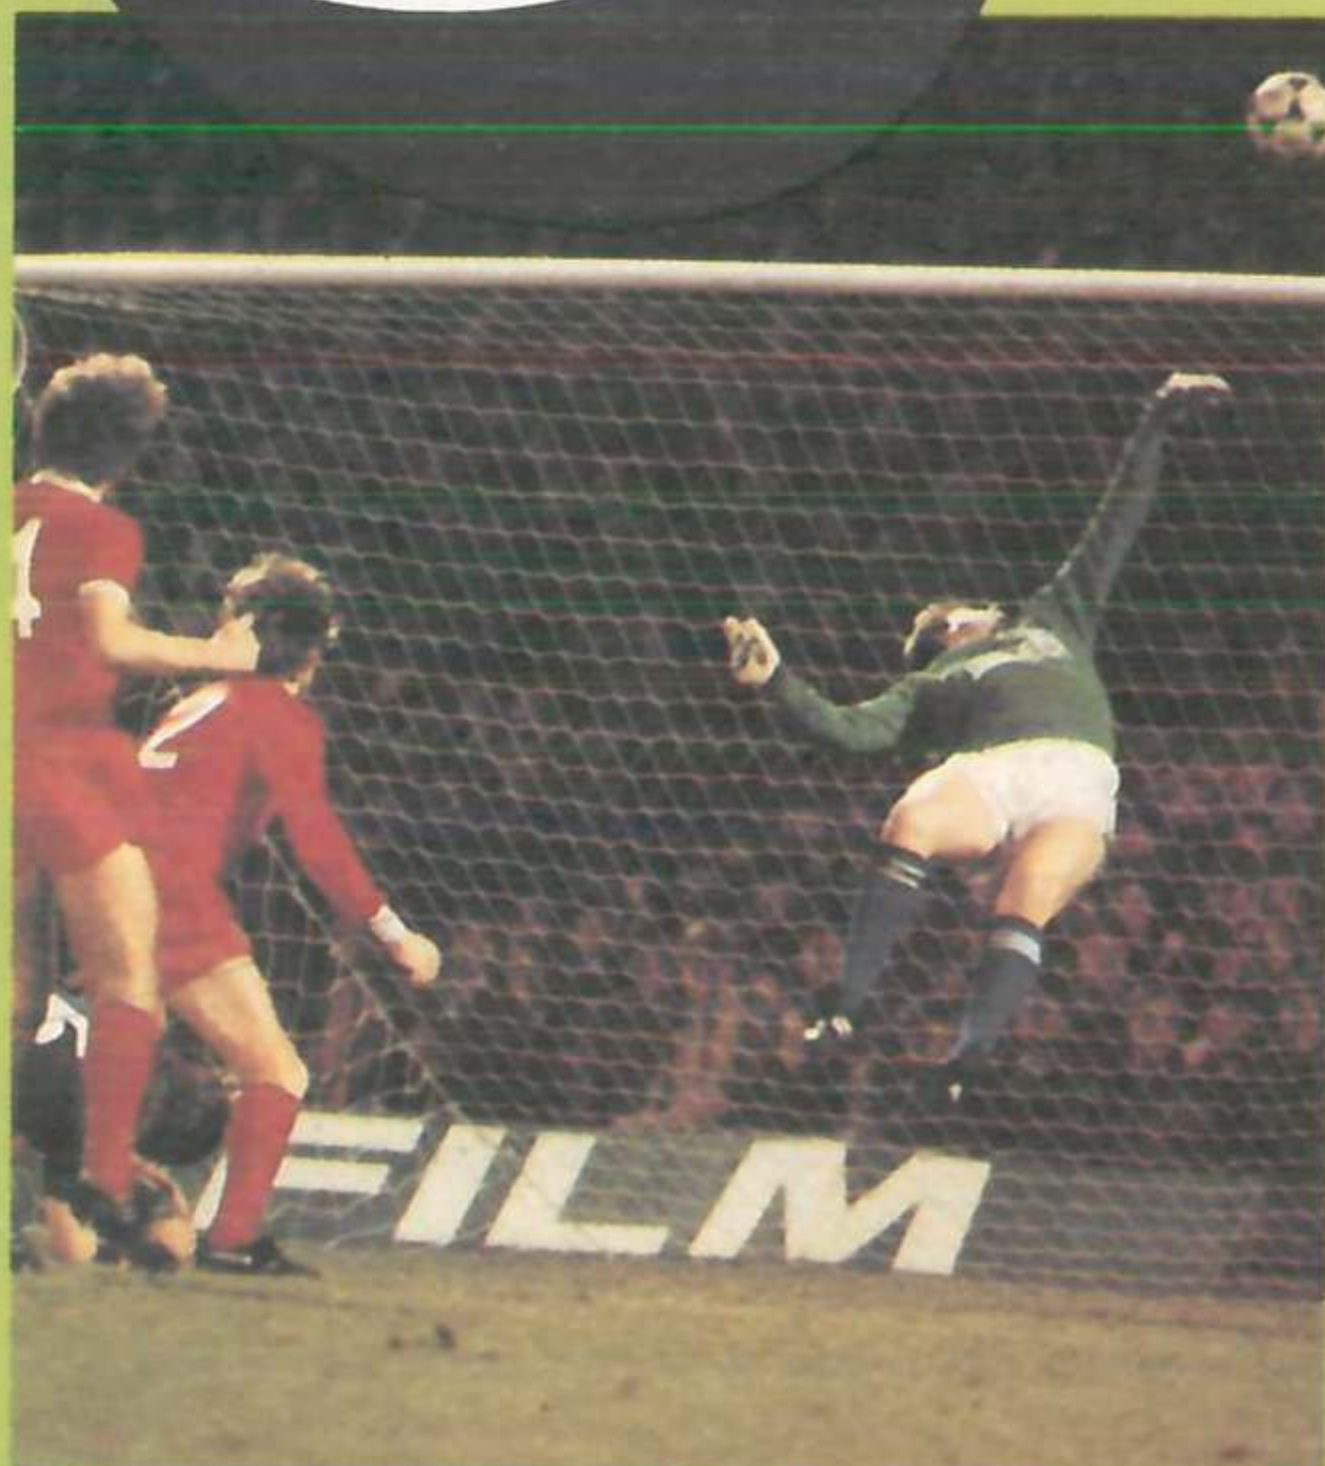

In 1961, at the age of 66, Rous was elected President of FIFA. It was the highlight of even his full life. His schedule was awesome. He was constantly travelling all over the world, clocking up hundreds of thousands of flying miles, and attempting to visit as many of the member nations of FIFA as possible.

After Brazil won the World Cup for the third time in 1970 and were permitted to keep the Jules Rimet Trophy, they offered to present a new trophy called The Stanley Rous Cup. The grand old man declined.

Rous was replaced as President of FIFA by Joao Havelange, the Brazilian lawyer, in 1974 and left a legacy of tremendous work and solid achievement. Sir Stanley Rous, who still retains associations with the game he loves and has done so much to enhance, was, among other things, President of Arsenal and Honorary President of FIFA as he entered his 90th year.

Bobby Charlton, former England and Manchester United idol, a legend in his own time.

BOBBY CHARLTON

He was England's best-loved, best-known footballer, and quite possibly the best-equipped. He has almost certainly enjoyed more 'finest hours' than any single British player.

Leading Manchester United to the European Cup in 1968, being a member of the England World Cup-winning team in 1966. Indeed, his whole career was a triumph for a man who underwent the physical and mental turmoil of surviving the Munich air crash.

But one single match, in which Charlton's personal contribution was massive and the result stirred a nation, stands out. The England versus Portugal World Cup semi-final at Wembley in 1966.

It was the match which ignited the competition. The day the kicking stopped and the football started. And Charlton, the England team's most potent weapon, was brilliant.

The 1966 World Cup took a long time to get going. Negative football and violent, antagonistic matches had been the primary features of the tournament until the host nation faced Portugal for a place in the Final.

A total of 93,000 spectators, most of them unashamedly biased, crammed into Wembley. The quality of the spectacle, allied to the result they desired, whipped them into a frenzy.

Charlton struck first after half an hour. Roger Hunt drove a shot against the legs of Portuguese goalkeeper Jose Pereira and the ball rebounded to Charlton, who guided it into the net.

Portugal, with Eusebio at his inspirational best, dominated the remainder of the first half. But they could not find a way through the rigid England defence, in which the immaculate Gordon Banks was a brilliant last line.

As England fought to contain Portugal in midfield in the second half, their principal weapon became Charlton's shooting power. Twice he unleashed thunderous efforts from square passes and twice he was denied. Then he found his aim.

Geoff Hurst, who became the hat-trick hero in the Final against West Germany a few days later, held off a couple of challenges and rolled the ball into the path of Charlton, who bulged the net from outside the penalty area.

Wembley erupted. Even some of the Portuguese players applauded. The appreciation for Charlton was universal and ungrudging. He was a mighty player.

The game, though, was not over. Within two minutes, Portugal scored. Eusebio converted the penalty after Jack Charlton's hand had prevented the ball going into the net following a rare mistake by Banks.

England held out, Wembley seethed with noise and the spectators' hearts went out to two men. To Eusebio, the great Portuguese forward, who had tried everything he knew and left the pitch weeping. He wiped away the tears with the hem of his shirt.

And to Bobby Charlton, the player of the 1966 World Cup, whose name was to become, quite simply, the two most widely-recognised words in the English language.

BRIBERY

and CORRUPTION

Football officials are worried following the disclosure of a match fixing syndicate in the Asia Cup competition.

Singapore's Corrupt Practices Investigation Bureau, questioned seven people following complaints from members of the Syrian team that they had been approached to lose their match against Saudia Arabia during the opening stages of the competition.

In the event the Saudi team won 1-0, but after further investigation the Bureau laid charges against a 28-year-old Thai businessman who it was alleged offered 20,000 U.S. dollars to five Syrian players.

During the case the prosecution submitted that the accused was a member of an international bookmaking syndicate and after pleading guilty, Lerma Travitt was sentenced to eight months in jail.

He was probably only the front-man though and according to press reports it was quite a professional organisation with contact with the players at first being made through two pretty girls, specially recruited for the job.

However, the Syrian players were not taken in and reported the approach to the head of their delegation.

Other reports also linked a Jordanian and a businessman holding a United Emirates passport with the case. They were detained for questioning following allegations that they had offered the manager of the Indian team 75,000 U.S. dollars to fix India's game with China, while a bribe is also reported to have been made to a member of the U.A.E. team.

The implications of organised crime infiltrating into international football are serious and with the World Cup series already in full swing and the finals scheduled for Mexico in the summer of 1986, FIFA are keeping a close watch on the investigations in Singapore.

The world governing body are already investigating a claim made by an Italian weekly magazine, Epoca, that Cameroun were bribed by Italian football representatives to draw one of their group matches 1-1, in the Finals in Spain in 1982.

Italy went on to qualify from that group and eventually win the competition.

FIFA summoned Enzo Bearzot, the Italian manager and Dino Zoff, the then captain, to appear at an enquiry, while in Rome the public prosecutor's office was also making enquiries.

Should the Italians be found guilty then they could be suspended from international competition for a year or two and that would include the Finals in Mexico.

VARSITY NONSENSE

The 101st meeting of the Oxford and Cambridge University sides yawned its way through 90 minutes of boredom at Wembley Stadium before the lowest gate ever.

Gone are the days when the varsity match attracted live television coverage and gates of 30,000 or more and it seems ridiculous to keep staging the match at our national stadium.

Small crowds are simply lost in the vast arena and therefore there is little atmosphere to stimulate the players. The two Universities would benefit more if they alternated the fixture between Cambridge United's Abbey Stadium and Oxford United's Manor Ground. Both are compact, neat arenas in which small crowds can make their presence felt.

Certainly at Wembley there was little to cheer and when the gloom set in the stadium authorities only switched the central floodlights on, illuminating the centre of the field. Perhaps they were hoping the players would fade away into the shadows at each end!

Star Profile

A look back at some of the Wanderers past players

NAT LOFTHOUSE once described ROY GREAVES as "Bolton Wanderers from the top of his head to the tip of his toes."

"A true professional in every sense of the word. He has an amazing ability to read situations."

But Greaves, who spent 15 years as a Bolton first-teamer, didn't always get the credit he deserved from every section of the Burnden Park crowd. Nevertheless, ROY GREAVES is still regarded by many as one of YESTERDAY'S HEROES.

THERE is no doubt about it — if ROY GREAVES hadn't decided to end his playing career in America he would have broken Eddie Hopkinson's club record of 519 League games with the Wanderers.

By the time he left in March 1980 to start a three year stint with Seattle Sounders in the then-flourishing North American Soccer League, Greaves had made 493 League appearances for the club.

He had been an important link in the chain which saw the fall and rise of the Wanderers, making his first appearance at Orient in 1965 when the club was in the Second Division. An inside forward in those days, he became one of the club's main goalscorers topping the club's list in 1967/8 and '68/9, before lending his experience to midfield where he played a vital part in leading the club back into the First Division.

Greaves was, in fact, skipper of the Second Division Championship winning side in 1977/78 — a great personal achievement for the Farnworth lad who had chosen to stay at Burnden Park rather than accept the offers which came in over the years from a variety of top clubs.

None other than Bill Shankly, the legendary Liverpool boss, was a Roy Greaves fan and Malcolm Allison was always at the front of the queue whenever there was a hint that Greaves might be prepared to leave the Wanderers.

But then he had always been a favourite with the managers he worked for at Burnden, seven in all — starting with Bill Ridding then Nat Lofthouse, Jimmy McIlroy, Jimmy Meadows, Jimmy Armfield, Ian Greaves and, finally, Stan Anderson.

Outsiders too had a healthy respect for Greaves. The late Alan Ball Senior once lashed out at Bolton fans for their treatment of his fellow Farnworthian and at the same time Bill Ridding spoke up saying: "If Greaves ever has a bad game it is not for the want of trying. he always gives 100 per cent."

But Greaves, himself, never complained and accepted in a most professional manner that if people pay their admission charge they are entitled to shout.

Greaves, who returned to England from the States and had a spell at Rochdale where he was player coach and for a time caretaker manager, now has interests in local soccer and currently manages Scotts Park United in the Bolton Combination.

Off the field he has business interests in the Northfield Snooker and Social Club and is still a well known figure around the town.
